THE SONG OF THE "LOCALS": "This little song, by our clever and promising 'local' is not at all pretentious; it does not aspire to rank with the first genuine lyrics of the age—yet it is quite meritorious in its way. As the early budding of a deep-planted poem, it betokens a fertile soil, that will ere long open and ope the petals of the poet's art, and blossom into a full and beautiful flower blooming to the sun of thought and song, and we shall call it VIBES."—The Louisville Journal.

THE SONG OF THE "LOCALS": "The melody, by Mr. Montague, is pleasing in conception and well arranged, and the printing is in Mr. Tripp's usually elegant style. We hope the piece will command a large sale."

DICKENS CLUB—FIRST ENTERTAINMENT. The long and eagerly expected entertainment of the Dickens Club were inaugurated last night at Weisiger Hall. Never have we seen a more agreeable assemblage. The first floor of the hall was crowded to its utmost, and quite a respectable audience appeared in the upper tier.

Of this opening entertainment, from beginning to end, we can speak only in terms of unqualified praise. By frequent and judicious rehearsals, the performers have been brought to a degree of perfection rarely attained by what are considered the best theatrical companies. Hence there was no drawback of any kind during the representations. All worked as smoothly as if art had been entirely absent. It is to be wondered at, then, that everybody in the hall was delighted.

The selections—dramatic scenes, statutory tableaux and all—were perhaps the best ever made by the club. Without exception, they met with the most enthusiastic applause. At the late hour of writing we haven't time to enumerate the different acts and pictures, much less to describe them. This, however, if it were in the least necessary, would be a task which the reader's curiosity might well trust his ability to perform, so we'll leave the delighted public to do the criticizing.

The memorable feature of the evening was the dramatized poem, Longfellow's "Golden Legend." It was arranged especially for this series of entertainments, and that its arrangement is in all respects charming, every one who saw it last evening will be able to testify. The scene is laid in Germany. Prince Henry of Hohenberg is afflicted with a terrible disease, which is pronounced incurable by all doctors except the famous doctor of Salerno, and by them save upon the condition that some maiden shall voluntarily give her life for his. He is regarded as dead by the court, and his sword and other treasures are buried with great pomp, whilst he is banished to a distant part of the realm. Taking up his abode in the cottage of a peasant family, he soon gains the affections of them all by his kind words and gentle manners; and Elsie, the daughter, hearing from her parents of the only cure for his disease, she surrenders to the doctor, and finally secures the cure for the prince. Prince Henry, overjoyed with grief at the loss of Elsie, suddenly recovers his strength of purpose, and, with the aid of his attendants, bursts upon the door, rescues Elsie, and finally himself completely restored to health. The Prince makes a vow that he will marry none but Elsie, and she is made the Lady Alicia, and becomes the wife of the Prince.

In every character and incident, the piece was a happy success. To be sure the crowning episode was the transformation scene, at the close. It is certainly the loveliest, most angelic living group that ever delighted the vision of our people. It is common to say that such and such a thing alone is "worth the price of admission." This legend is not only worth more than the price of a ticket, but it is worth coming thousands of miles to see. In harmonious grouping, beauty of faces and figures, and general construction, the transformation scene is incomparable. This magnificent production will terminate each performance of the present series, in order that all may have a chance of beholding it.

Recalled the minnie for ladies and children this afternoon, when the doors will be thrown open at 2 o'clock. There will be a complete change of programme.

LOCAL BUDGET.

MANY THINGS OF MANY KINDS.

—Large fields of ice continue to float "down the Ohio."

—Our theater-goers are shortly to have a big rest—Forest.

—The venerable General Leslie comes in at the Willard Hotel.

—Old Bull fiddles at Weisiger Hall next Friday and Saturday evenings.

—One-car cars made their appearance on the Main street railroad yesterday.

—James Woods, Jr., of the celebrated Cumberland Iron Works, is at the Willard.

—The Fenian meeting advertised to be held at the Court-house last night was postponed.

—At 9 o'clock last evening, the mercury stood at 27, and the barometer gauged 29.85, and rising.

—Time and barrel winds add to the slipperiness of our pavements, as many a thumped head can testify.

—Good ice at Cedar Hill pond yesterday. Ergo, large party of gay and festive skaters went out there.

—Two detectives from Detroit were in this city yesterday, seeking for a notorious burglar of the place.

—"Capital weather," Mr. Jones, capital weather. My wife's got a cold, but she can't speak. I like such weather."

—An architect proposes to build a "Bachelors' Hall," which will differ from most other houses in having no Eves.

—The next masquerade will be given by the Italian Union Brotherhood, at Masonic Temple, on the evening of the 25th inst.

—John, did Mrs. Green get the medicine I ordered? "I guess so," replied John, "I saw craps on the door next morning."

—The two sensation plays, Under the Gaslight and Nobody's Child, are to be performed alternate nights at the Louisville Theater this week.

—James Gibbons, Esq., and Colonel P. F. Walsh, will lecture upon Irish Independence in the House of Representatives at Frankfort this evening.

—A soldier, being asked if he met with much hospitality whilst in the army, replied: "Oh, yes, I was in the hospital nearly all the time I was there."

—A prominent character at the Orpheus masquerade was "Under the Gaslight," represented by a prodigious post and a huge lamp brilliantly illuminated.

—There was quite a lively run of mules and sheep today to the larders of our citizens, and the mules will go South.

—The Dickens Club matinee, at three o'clock this afternoon, will, of course, be attended by all the ladies and children, and a large sprinkling of adult males. It ought to be, anyhow.

—Friday next is St. Valentine's Day, and already the shop windows are hung with beautiful, grotesque, hideous, and terrible looking pieces of paper, printed and painted, suggestive of the occasion.

—On the Jeffersonville road the mill train now leaves at 6 A. M., instead of 5 A. M., the day express at 4:30 P. M., instead of 4 P. M., and the mail train from Cincinnati and the East arrives at 3:35 P. M., instead of 4:30 P. M.

—Both, the tragedian, had a broken nose. A lady once remarked to him, "I like your acting, Mr. Booth, but to be frank with you, I can't get over your nose."

—"No wonder, madam," replied he, "the bridge is gone."

—Music was first printed with movable types about the year 1500. Printed, the invention of the printer, the performer has been brought to a degree of perfection rarely attained by what are considered the best theatrical companies.

—In our notice of the change of schedule on the Louisville and Nashville road, yesterday, a very grave misprint occurred. The morning train departs at 8:30, instead of 1:30, as announced—a difference that all travelers and newspaper folks know how to appreciate.

—It is said that Augustus J. Evans is to write a new novel, in which the lovers assume themselves in their lighter moments with the problems of integral and differential calculus. In their serious moments they talk to each other of the origin of the Chaldean and Sanskrit tongue.

—A scene of vocal and instrumental music will be given at the Calvary (Episcopal) Church on the 26th inst. It is under the direction of some of our worshipping citizens, and the performers include the more accomplished of our amateur musicians. The success of our amateur musicians. The success of our amateur musicians.

—The report of Gen. Godfrey Weitzel of his survey of the falls of the Ohio, with the accompanying maps and drawings, have been forwarded to the proper authorities at Washington. The report is said to be a very succinct and detailed one, and the maps and drawings accompanying it are very finely executed. Gen. Weitzel's report will probably be laid before Congress within the next two weeks.

—Capt. Tom Wright, long and favorably known to the Louisville public, has been negotiating with Mr. B. F. Devo for the purchase of his splendid farm situated in Kentucky, sixteen miles below this city. The price agreed upon is about $40,000.

—Mr. D. R. Dorris, late of the Nashville Republican, has accepted a position on the Courier of this city. The latter trusts that energy, industry, and genuine goodness of heart may win for him here as many friends as he leaves in Nashville. We have no doubt that they will.

—The Maggie is a bird with a natural bent to appropriation. Hence the title is appropriately applied to a new comic paper, made up on the Darwinian principle of natural selection, and from all foreign fun. It is to be hoped that none of the jokes imported and reproduced will be so affected by transportation as to seem far-fetched.

—A Boston paper thinks that the reason why Goliath was astonished when David hit him with a stone was that such a thing never entered his head before. The editorial reader will at once wonder if a remark could have been made regarding the sling as well as the stone. The same paper tells the story of a Sunday School pupil, who, in the course of examination on the Psalms, was asked, "What is the pestilence that walketh in the darkness?" The reply was, "Pleasant, sir, bedbugs."

—A slender form, a girlish face, blue eyes and golden hair, sweet smile, and a voice like a bird's, were the features of a young lady who, on the 10th inst., was found lying on the sidewalk, apparently dead. She was taken to the hospital, and after being attended for some time, she died. The cause of death was not ascertained.

LOUISVILLE CITY COURT.

HON. E. A. GRAHAM ON THE BENCH.

The attendance at the Police Court yesterday morning was small, and few cases were disposed of. The hard times seem to forbid the usual drunkenness more effectively than the laws.

REVIEW OF THE MARKETS.

February 11, 1908.

No new feature of a presented monetary affairs. Capital is abundant for temporary use, and the wants of borrowers are supplied at from 9 to 12 per cent, according to the character of the paper offered.

Gold continues high; opened at 142 and closed at 142 1/2.

The Eastern dispatches indicated a further advance for cotton, with an active market. The continued upward tendency of prices for the great staple is gratifying; but with it is accompanied a corresponding advance in the premium for gold, while all leading articles of consumption and necessities of life are enhanced, so that the relief gained to one class proves a loss to another.

Wages of labor in all mechanical branches is depreciated, while the cost of living is gradually becoming higher, so far as food and raiment are concerned.

These continued fluctuations are injurious to all classes, and serve only to give fuel or spasmic energy to trade, producing no satisfactory or lasting good. The good and welfare of the country require permanency in business matters, and not these sudden and constant ups and downs in prices.

The condition in navigation has improved, being partially resumed, and more activity in trade is produced, though the demand is mostly local, and confined to the city trade.

The weather to-day was more moderate, with a good thaw, but towards evening it was freezing. No severe cold weather prevails at present.
